CASCADE FUNDS: CONTEXT

What is the European cascade funding?

Cascade Funding, also known as Financial Support for Third Parties (FSTP), is a European Commission mechanism to distribute public funding in order to assist beneficiaries, such as start-ups, scale-ups, SME and/or Public Entities, NGOs & mid-caps, in the uptake or development of an innovation.

This financial instrument is still relatively little known, but extremely effective.

CONTEXT

This type of funding is distributed by a consortium previously funded by the European Commission within a project.

The consortium (represented by the Project Coordinator) acts as the administrator of the grant and allocates it to other entities through the issuance of open calls.

Cascade funding can range from 5,000€ to 150,000€, with percentages ranging from 50% to 100%.

Typically, these grants can be used for testing, validation or development activities of new solutions related to the innovations being developed in the funding project.

CONTEXT

This form of financing represents an attractive opportunity for those that wish to access financial resources without having to go through the complex procedures of applying for direct funding.

In addition, the fact that funds have already been allocated to major projects provides greater security and reliability in the process of distributing contributions to third parties.
